

the Institute for the Promotion of Christian Higher Education in Latin America

The vision

A learning community of students, professors, and institutions in Latin America that are contextualizing a Kingdom worldview in the area of higher education and in their professions and are intentionally connected to their local churches for the transformation of their societies.

Partners

- CRWM: Christian Reformed World Missions
- IAPCHE: International Association for the Promotion of Christian Higher Education
- LATF: Latin American Theological Fellowship
- CIEE: International Fellowship of Evangelical Students
- UNELA: Universidad Evangélica de las Américas

The objectives

- Institutional strengthening of Christian universities.
- Collaborative curriculum design for a variety of academic areas and for interdisciplinary efforts with a Christian worldview.
- Expansion of courses and career offerings by Christian universities through faculty networks and exchange according to areas of specialization.
- Publication of books by Latin American authors that apply a Kingdom worldview to different academic disciplines and professions.
- Opportunities for faculty development (for those in Christian and secular universities).
- Consolidation of a growing Christian student movement.
- Partnering in mission with the church in North America.
